Champ Decides to Quit Great Fistic Career

By SID FEDER

New York, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Unless Joe Louis changes his mind—or Uncle Sam changes it for him—the greatest fistic career of this era is ended.

The quiet, simple colored boy who skyrocketed out of an Alabama cotton patch into such fistic fame that many experts think him the greatest fighter of all time, paused in Omaha yesterday to say casually that his "fighting days are over."

He said in the typical Louis way, without frills or drumbeating, the same way in which he dropped the same glory and financial success that goes with the heavyweight championship to enlist in the United States Army as a private last January.

"By the time this war is over," he reckoned, "I'll be in my 30's, and that's too old for a fighter. I'm too old for it now."

Of course, it would all change if the War Department decides to let Joe serve as a sergeant now—out to see his bonus again. But the army already has turned thumbs down on one fight for the Bomber—his eagerly-looked-for return go with Corporal Billy Conn.

"I'll do anything the army asks," Joe said. "I'm in the army now, and they're taking care of my plans."

Naturally, Joe could change his mind. He wouldn't be the first champion who couldn't get the "rosin out of his hands," but as matters stand now, the Bomber, at 28, is giving up a reign that already has netted purses of more than $2,000,000 and has broken all records for successful defenses of the fight game's most prized bauble. He has turned down the challenge since he won the crown from old rough-and-ready Jim Braddock back in 1937, and no champ ever came within shouting distance of that mark.

Louis' statement, which he made to Associated Press Staff Reporter David Kaufman after marching with the Fort Riley precision drill team in an exhibition, left the fight world gasping in astonishment.

Altogether, Joe has been fighting eight years, has been seen in action by approximately 1,100,000 fans and has earned $2,227,959, but only some 25 percent of this sum reached his pocket after expenses and "cuts."

All in all, he has had 57 professional fights. He won 56 of them—47 by knockouts. His only defeat was a 12 round kayo by Max Schmeling in 1936, a setback he avenged two years later by putting Max to sleep in one round.

From the time he outpointed Mike Brown in 1935, he tore the heavyweight ranks apart, but through it all, he changed little from the likeable, unaffected youngster he was the first day he "arrived."

It was his character more than his fistic ability that led former Mayor James J. Walker to pay tribute to him as "a great Negro and a fine American—and something more: You've laid a red rose on Abe Lincoln's grave." That was New York when Joe was given the 1941 fighter of the year and Louis replied simply, "I thought the day I won the heavyweight championship would stand out as the happiest day of my life; but this tops that."

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Wide World Sports Columnist

New York, Oct. 12.—You probably can get a fresh idea on baseball's future from every guy in the business, but here's one angle that is brand new to us—relayed from a minor league club owner by Lawrence Skiddy of the Syracuse Herald-Journal. The owner figures that any effort to shorten the season would wreck the minors. . . . Double-A players, he points out, get an average of about $2,000 for a 20-week season or $100 a week. . . . Cut three weeks off that and they'd get only $1,700—because without those Sunday doubleheaders the owners couldn't afford to pay as much as they would for a full season. . . . The result would be that most players would be sticking to their factory jobs which pay almost that much the year round.

Today's Guest Star
 Carl Bell, Fort Smith (Ark.) Sox west American (in case of) Coach Homer Norton still is looking for an alibi for the Texas Aggies' loss to Louisiana State, he might find some connection in the fact that the game played at night and that LSU's star back was Al Dark.

Postponed Payoff
 When Chief Bender, the old Athletics pitcher, made his pro baseball debut in Dillsburgh, Pa., 41 years ago he was promised $5 for his day's work. . . . The locals passed the hat and dumped the coins in Bender's hands, and when he counted the pennies until a couple of weeks ago. . . . Then William Sheffer read about the occasion in a Philadelphia paper, and to clear up his home town's reputation he took up another collection to pay off the chief.

Service Dept.
 Soldiers who are traveling with the Army have organized a football team to fill their spare time (if any) and would like to scrimmage Bernie Bierman's Navy Cadets when they're in that vicinity. . . . Some of the would-be Griders are Lieut. Art Bowersox from John Hopkins, Lieut. Joe Rothe of Texas A. & M., Pvt. Bill Scanlon, sports editor of the Fort Sheridan, Ill., Tower, figures that the cancellation of the Louis-Conn fight was all for the best. . . . "It would have been too confusing trying to mix fighting with the World Series," he writes. "And both of them got promotions in rank and neither one got hurt."

Week's Worst Gag
 Ted Carpenter, the Marquette U. tub-thumper, has to accept the responsibility for this one. . . . Learning that Marquette has a big opponent tackle named Leonard Liss, Ted says, a Vag suggests that Coach Tom Sidham is trying to develop his team on a "Len Liss" plan.

Pro Football Teams Take to Air for Wins

Chicago, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The National Football League has found promised land is as the crowd flies—or through the air.

Of 28 touchdowns made by the 10 pro teams yesterday, 17 must-remembered from passes. And virtually all others were set up by the same methods.

After the sky had been cleared of leather, those national champions, the Chicago Bears, remained the only undefeated team in the league. This came about when they switched by their arch city rivals, the Cardinals, 41 to 14—the biggest scoring outburst of the day which left George Halas' men their 8th straight win of the season, three in league play; their 16th in succession spanning back to 1941 and their 31st victory in 32 games.

The Bears also set a record for going backward. Twelve penalties cost them 150 yards, breaking their own league record of 12 for 128 against the Green Bay Packers on Dec. 14, 1941.

Yesterday's results:
 Chicago Bears 41, Chicago Cardinals 14.
 New York 35, Philadelphia 17.
 Green Bay 38, Detroit 7.

More Upsets As Football Nears Halfway Mark

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

New York, Oct. 12.—(AP)—With freshmen holding first team berths and strangers holding coaching jobs, it's little wonder that this unprecedented wartime football season, rapidly approaching the halfway mark, has the fans holding their heads.

Chopped up like a jigsaw puzzle, because of the presence of service teams, the campaign is a ready-made Christmas stocking but others aren't far away.

Those who appreciate action in carload lots will have to wait no longer than the coming week-end for more of the same.

If the season has proved nothing else, it has shown that the Navy can produce teams from among its pre-flight trainees that are better than the best collegial squads, but even his convincing demonstration may strike a snag before another week.

Lieut. Col. Bernie Bierman's Iowa Seahawks, whose 20-14 victory over Michigan last week added the Wolverines to a list of victors already included North Carolina and Minnesota, are due for another stern test Saturday against a Notre Dame team that finally has found itself.

With accurate Angelo Bertelli passing to all four touchdowns, the Irish whipped Stanford last Saturday, 27-0.

Illinois, fresh from its surprising 20-13 triumph over Minnesota, stakes its clean record against Iowa in another Midwestern headliner and Wisconsin, 17-0 conqueror of Missouri, meets Great Lakes Naval.

Ohio State, 28-12 victor over Southern California, meets Purdue, which tripped Northwestern, 7-6. Michigan and Northwestern collide in another big ten game.

One of the east's principal attractions will find Pennsylvania, which walloped Yale, 35-6, bumping into Princeton, the team that surprised Navy, 10-0.

Additional eastern features will send army against Columbia, Navy against Harvard, Cornell against Penn State, and Holy Cross against Pre-Flight team engages the Penn State Fliers.

In the southwest, Texas will be opening its bid for conference honors against Arkansas. Baylor, off on the right foot with a 20-7 triumph over Arkansas, clashes with Texas Tech. Texas Christian will be seeking its second conference win against Texas A. and M., and Southern Methodist has an intercollegiate date with Temple Friday night.

U.C.L.A., which upset Oregon State's defending Champions of the Pacific coast, 30-7, bumps into California, which has lost two close ones, the last, 7-0, to Santa Clara Saturday.

Southern California meets Washington State in another conference struggle, while Stanford tangles with Idaho and Washington moved against Santa Clara clash in a non-league affair.

Missouri's defending Big Six champions open their conference schedule against Kansas State and Oklahoma, which has lost two close ones, the last, 7-0, to Santa Clara Saturday.

Nebraska plays Minnesota and Iowa State takes on Drake in non-league affairs.

Tulsa, unbeaten and unscathed after three non-conference games, steps into Mission Valley play against Washington of St. Louis in that loop's headliner.

 PLUMBING

Suddenly the bus struck something, and Blythe was thrown against Norman. She smelled gasoline burning, heard a woman scream.

ing! But it was an invitation, to be sociable, even so. Duane Hogan wrinkled his nose impishly at her. Blythe edged away from her farther so as to kneel on her seat.

Then—"We make powwow," she signaled, using Indian signs Duane himself had taught her. She pointed to the rear.

Not Duane, but another young man stood up. He had been alert two seats to her rear. In a moment he leaned across the sleeping Pop Miller and whispered, "You're lonesome, Bly, and so am I. Let's go way back and have a cigarette."

She didn't want a cigarette—Pop forbade smoking now anyway—and she didn't want to talk to Norman Dana. But, too, she didn't want to seem rude.

They stepped over khaki legs and duffel to get back there. Piqued at Duane for awkwardness, she passed, then she sat with Norman on the rear-most seat that curved clear across the bus. No one else was here.

"You shouldn't smoke in training," Blythe murmured, looking not at him but out at the stormy darkness.

"Have to let down after a licking," said he. "Anyway—the hell with it. We're not in school now."

"But you're in flying school! A cadet! That's even more important, Norman."

"I can already fly. I could do that when I came here. It's the licking—15 to 0 stings, Bly. We never took much of that at State U. We played tops football. To let a bunch of rookies push us around like they did this afternoon—"

HE broke off in disgust. His manner said much. His high, clean forehead, his sensitive lips, his whole Barrymore profile and to typify those men of the west one reads about in fact or fiction, and he did indeed come from a west Texas ranch. Maybe, Blythe sighed, he was far-and-away too good for her, too grand. It was a thing to moon about.

Her wink had not been flirtatious, and both of them knew it; Blythe Miller would have slipped any man who accused her of flirt-

To serve you best... WE MUST SERVE THE NATION FIRST

Long distance telephone calls are helping move things faster these days in scores of army camps and munitions factories. And long distance telephone lines are crowded.

We know you're glad to help us clear the way for vital war calls by making as few calls as possible, by being brief, and by avoiding the long circuits to faraway cities particularly between 7 and 9 p.m. After all, war is everyone's Number One job.

But don't think we have forgotten that your calls are important, too. We're as anxious as ever to serve you when you need us. If we ask for your co-operation, it's because we know that to serve you best, we must serve the nation first.
